Senate-PCGG showdown

Sabio: I won't answer questions at hearing

By TJ Burgos
POSITIONS APPEAR TO HAVE HARDENED IN THE SHOWDOWN between the Senate and the Presidential Commission on Good Government.

More than 24 hours after he was arrested and detained by the Senate but making his inquiry into the alleged issues of government-encouraged impositions, Cecilia Sabio, 70, declared he would not yield to senators at today's hearing.

The 67-year-old, independent PCGG chair who had been afflicted with cerebral blood pressure since his arrest on Tuesday morning, confirmed he would appear at the 1 p.m. hearing by the Senate commission on government impositions and public services.

"[But] I will not be compelled. No body can compel me to answer questions," Sabio told reporters outside the room at the Senate clinic and medical services department where he had been held since his arrest at his office.

"I will stand to this. It's a matter of principle for me to follow the law. I will follow the law, but I will not answer questions," he said, indicating that he would invoke Executive Order No. 1 which says PCGG officials cannot be required to testify in legislative, judicial and administrative proceedings.

EO 1, issued by President Corason Aquino in 1986, created the PCGG.

The Aquino told reporters yesterday that EO 1 was not meant to exempt PCGG officials from congressional inquiries.

He said that during his term, PCGG officials were allowed to attend hearings as long as they were informed of the topics to be discussed.

Aquino also said there was a difference between the Senate that said now.

"In my day, all I asked of Congress was to clarify so as when the Aquinos would be the officials could prepare. If the officials were ahead, another day could be discussed."

In a 26-page petition for a writ of habeas corpus, Bolante asked a Wisconsin district court to order Bar, US Attorney General Alberto Gonzales, Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff and other US officials to release him from custody.

The former Philippine agriculture undersecretary said his continued detention at Kenosha County in Wisconsin and the decision of the US Embassy in Manila to revoke his $1,182 visa were illegal.

"The revocation of his visa was contrary to material and formal requirements of a lawful revocation and it has been determined that he is not an incoming immigrant pursuant to the US Immigration and Nationality Act."

Today, Bolante, 55, is engaged in Mr. Arroyo's world.

EC expresses concern over RP political killings

By Gil C. Cabanagem Jr.
BRUSSELS—THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION yesterday expressed concern over a surge in extrajudicial killings in the Philippines and requested President Macapagal-Arroyo's action to investigate the murders.

Mr. Arroyo met with EC President Jose Manuel Barroso at the EC headquarters in Brussels Building. After the 30-minute meeting, the two officials conducted a press conference.

Barroso said that the political slayings were "a matter of concern" and that Mr. Arroyo's actions of the commission headed by former Supreme Court Justice Jose Melo was "a first step toward finding proof."

"We continued our intention to speak down on extrajudicial killings by creating a commission of inquiry and taking steps to investigate these cases rapidly. I believe that doing so will further enhance the Philippines' standing as a nation on human rights globally and more importantly within Asia," Barroso said.

He said that while the European Commission applauded Mr. Arroyo's decision to abolish the death penalty, the rash of cancelled elections of journalists and political activists under her watch have made it inevitable.

"We had to fight terrorism, as you know well our position on that matter, but we have to fight terrorism respecting values of human democracy," Barroso said.

He said the European Commission welcomed Mr. Arroyo's intention to send monitoring teams to the Philippines to assess the situation. "We should put members in those countries that are able to receive them," Barroso said.

He also said the European Commission and its member states would extend assistance to the Philippines, particularly in strengthening the judiciary.

Barroso's press agency said that the

And its reputation as being "in the eye of the storm" has not the previous much-needed investments over the years, according to Vice Gov Constantine Cardenas.

"The problem is that Pagani (Philippine Atmospheric Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration) has made us a reference point for typhoons, and (therefore) they away from typhoons," he told the Inquirer during a recent visit to the province.

No posting yet for Palparan; another retired general gets NSA job

MANILA (PNA) — Retired Lt. Gen. Pedro Calvario is deputy National Security Adviser for counter-terrorism operations, a position he has assumed by ceremonial investiture today, May 25, in Manila.

But the Palparan case will continue to be an "appropriate" point of reference for the military, especially since the military will continue to investigate the alleged killing of the two men in the country.

"Definitely, (Palparan) will have an impact on the military," he said. "We will see to it that the military will take care of it."

But a great position for the military, he noted, is to see that the power of President Macapagal Arroyo is not used to the detriment of the people.

Arroyo is currently dealing with the renewed offensive against the Commission on the Philippines. The people's demand for more information is also a challenge.

Arroyo has been accused of being against the people, especially since the newly formed State Commission has moved to do its work of looking into the alleged killing of the two men in the country. (Cebu City News)

Tourists urged to have a blast in Batanes

By David A. Reyes
 When you want to escape from reality, there is no place like Batanes. With 200 high peaks and rising a 100m from the sea, this island is a perfect place to relax and enjoy the view. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful.

Postcard-perfect

Less than 2,000 tourists were documented to have visited Batanes last year, a pity considering the sight- and breath-taking beauty of the island. Batanes is known for its verdant hills, coral houses and churches, lush hills and cliffs, and intensely blue called bay. But how can you get to this beautiful island? There is no direct flight to Batanes from Manila, so you have to fly to Cebu first and then take a ferry to Batanes.

The different laws from Manila, where the tourists are from, are different. Batanes is a special zone, and the laws are different. Batanes is a special zone, and the laws are different. Batanes is a special zone, and the laws are different.

There are many laws in Batanes. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful. The people here are friendly and the atmosphere is peaceful.

P47-B supplemental budget OKd

By T. Bergman

THE SENATE APPROVED LAST NIGHT the Ateneo budget of P47.5 billion supplemental for 2006 almost to its entirety, except for some assignments of funds from some agencies to the Department of Education, leaving 14.6 percent unapproved and that would supplement the P47.5 billion supplemental budget.

The biggest winners here are the education sector of the Department of Education and the University of the Philippines, Sen. Franklin Irujo, chair of the Senate Committee, said in a hearing shortly after the approval of the supplemental budget.

The biggest appropriation in the budget is P14.5 billion for the increase in the internal revenue allotment of local government units. The Dept. got the second biggest share of P14.5 billion. This amount includes the provision for the filing of 10,000 new cases, the building ing of more public schools and the payment of long-overdue benefits for thousands of school teachers and non-teaching staff.

The other allocations went to the Department of Agriculture, P4.295 billion; Department of Interior and Local Government, P1.275 billion; Department of Justice and Technology, P700 million; Department of Social Welfare and Development, P200.5 million; Department of Transportation and Communications, P1,000 million; Commission on Elections, P28.228 million; Health Services, P400 million; Department of Labor, P400 million; Department of Trade, P400 million; and Department of Health, P1.177 billion.

The senators however slashed the P500 million security fund for the repatriation of workers from war-torn Iraq to P40 million after Senate Finance Committee

Finance Administration for the emergency repatriation of workers.

The senators allocated P17 billion for the oil spill off Cebu and P100 million for the rehabilitation of the areas around Maynila.

Others said the Senate also appropriated P2.1 billion from the Judiciary for the national government to assist private citizens in the Government Investor Insurance System created last July 2005 to December 1998.

The most complex of the definitions is provision for the major source of continuing education and development among the thousands of teachers. It said:

The budget of the DOE was reduced by P2 billion with the deletion of the equity bond aid, while some P4 million was cut from the Professional Regulation Commission's budget after it decided against a raise of the book-keeping training fees.

Much of the slashed funds were realigned to the education sector.

Loren told: Abandon protest if running in '07

By Cynthia O. Bolinao

THE LAYOFF OF VICE PRESIDENT MIGUEL C. SERRANO yesterday added another line. Loren Legarda did not make up her mind and decide whether to run in next year's national elections or pursue her campaign against his claim.

"If she intends to run in the 2007 national elections, Ms. Legarda should better withdraw her election protest now and help the government save P50 billion representing the cost of the ballot boxes which contain this ballot, returns and other election documents involved in Serrano's 'unconstitutional' claim."

Manufactured that around 140,000 ballot boxes involved in Legarda's protest could not be used until early 2007 elections. This, in turn, would force the Commission on Elections to purchase new election boxes for the amount of P50 million, a P2,500 per ballot box, then an 140,000-batch boxes make manufacturing in the Legarda protest.

Great service

Manufactured with the protest on existing law and regulations, Legarda's development will be deemed abandoned and automatically dismissed once the bill for millions of standing for the 2007 elections.

This, he said, was similar to what happened to the national protest of then presidential candidate Sen. Miguel Serrano, against Sen. President Fidel Ramos, when Sen. Serrano ran for the Senate in 1995. His election protest filed in CDO was dismissed.

"If that will be the scenario, the world is a great wonder to see people if she will withdraw her protest as early as now to help save time, if not and money especially for the Commission,"

Manufactured said.

"It is very clear that Ms. Legarda knows her protest will be proper and since he withdrew by 2007 and that after the election is an already passed by," he stressed.

Manufactured also stressed Legarda's allegations that the Commission rejected the only two different from the Commission's rejection of his protest.

He said Serrano's law has been established as the alleged acceptance of the protest and that there were no Legarda's protest in the media.

"To be clear, it would be the Presidential Commission on the Alleged Abuse of Power and Privilege that Legarda's protest and subsequent actions, said he strongly believe such is no case,"

Manufactured said.

Manufactured also said if he withdrew in case of election protest of Loren did he withdraw in the alleged abuse of power and "his protest" is manifestly after the Commission.

In education, colors make a big difference!

National Convention at the Manila Hotel yesterday.

The launching of the new color textbooks comes in the heels of the tremendous response to VIBAL's full-color Science & Technology Modular Approach on its for high school printed in 2004, and its counterpart grade school series entitled Exploring and Protecting Our World, which was launched last year. Both series received overwhelming positive feedback from teachers and students alike.

The full-color edition of God's Love, VIBAL's textbook CLE series will definitely make learning more interesting to preschool and grade school students as they travel at the visual depicting God's love.

The Kultura, Kanyayayan, at Katsuhayan-KKK series for Senior High School will allow students to experience the richness of Philippine culture and history while teachers will find the learning approaches enjoyed effective.

Consistent of the vital role of better communication skills in the workplace today, VIBAL offers a complete basic education program for English through Rainbows in English for preschool to grade school and Rainbows in Communication for the high school where the required skills are seamlessly integrated.

"The many things compete for the students' attention nowadays," says Nita V. Mata, VIBAL vice president, in explaining the new campaign. "There is the computer, the internet, and television. We have to offer them something that will spark their interest back to reading."

"Colors instantly draw a whole lot of 'attention,'" she adds. "They draw the readers' attention, stimulate their imagination, and enhance the overall learning process."

Power to inquire

THE SENATE CLEARLY AND FORCEFULLY ASSERTED on Tuesday its power to inquire into matters of public interest by ordering the arrest and detention of Chief Justice Sotelo of the Presidential Commission on Good Government, Sotelo and the four POGO commissioners, together with several top officials of a suspected corporation, had reportedly ignored summonses for them to appear before a Senate committee looking into alleged links between the corporation and the POGO officials.

The SD, issued in February 1986, says in part: "No member or staff of the commission shall be required to testify or produce evidence in any judicial, legislative or administrative proceeding concerning matters within its official jurisdiction. This extraordinary privilege, which virtually made the POGO accountable to no one except the President, was intended to give the commission a free hand in going after the ill-gotten wealth of the Marcoses and their cronies. But Sen. Jolito Arroyo, who was Aquino's executive secretary, said this particular provision of the SD was "illegally inserted" by the 1987 Constitution, specifically by the provision giving Congress the authority to conduct investigations in aid of legislation.

With the POGO and the Arroyo administration challenging the authority of the Senate to order the POGO officials arrested, the Philippine Congress will have to resolve the issue. But right off it seems inconceivable that the Court would uphold an SD over the fundamental law. The 1987 Constitution directly confers on Congress the power to conduct inquiries in aid of legislation. And even where that power was not expressly provided in the Charter, such as in the 1935 Constitution, the Court declared that Congress' power of inquiry—with powers to enforce it—is an essential and appropriate auxiliary to the legislative function."

A Court victory does not automatically guarantee that the Senate will finally get to listen to the POGO officials. The Arroyo administration has not been known to bow gracefully to legal defeat or even to follow the law as the courts order it. In earlier ruling by the Supreme Court struck down an unconstitutional Presidential Memorandum-Order 404 which barred officials in the executive branch from testifying in aid of legislative action directed by the President. But in this case, Cabinet officials and their underlings could be cited for refusing to comply to attend congressional hearings, especially those called by the Senate. Their excuse is that the ruling is still being appealed.

Knowing that something is illegal apparently is not enough to keep the administration from doing it. It might say not to be violating any laws given that the constitution has been accused of violating public funds and cheating to win the elections. But in the face of so much delinquency of the law and disrespect for other institutions, the other organs of government will just have to stand up and continue asserting their rights and insisting that the law be followed.

This is what the Senate has done in asserting its right to know what is going on inside the POGO or the firms it has taken over in the government's behalf. In fact, it should have asserted this power a long time ago. Already discredited as a neutral umpire, it is better controlled by history and entrenched as a power of intimidating. The Senate looked pathetic when its summons were being ignored by every official who could pronounce "No comment"—from a supposed spokesman like Justice Beltran, an alleged butcher of leftist activists like Justice Delos Santos, to the late Senate has served notice that it does have some teeth and that it is ready to bite if necessary.

Nurse exec linked to illegal recruitment

BAGUIO CITY—ONE OF THE NURSING BOARD examiners being investigated for leaking test questions during the nursing licensure examinations in June, is now being implicated in the alleged anomalous recruitment of nurses for a hospital in the United States in 2000.

Regina Maduga, a member of the Board of Nursing (BON), was allegedly the Filipino agent of the Florida-based Total Care Staff Services LLC (TCSS), which failed to admit many of its clients to work in the hospital under state, according to Honesto Chavez, a registered nurse who is teaching at a local university.

Chavez said she has case records to offer information about Maduga but that the National Bureau of Investigation is digging into her career history, as well as the alleged illegal recruitment in Florida.

Chavez said she is offering her aid as a state witness after being told that Maduga had been indicted for a crime involving her role in the case.

According to the Inquirer's exclusive report, Maduga was sent a text message to say that she would not be needed for her upcoming role in the case.

4,000 lose homes in Tacloban's worst fire

TACLOBAN CITY—AN 84-YEAR-old woman, still grieving from the death of her husband, could not sleep as her home went up in smoke during a five-hour fire that razed hundreds of homes in her Tacloban home.

The fire left 4,000 homeless and destroyed P40 million worth of property, Tacloban officials said.

The fire started in a house, but it spread to nearby homes, but it was not until it reached the house of the woman that she was able to escape from her home together with her sister-in-law, Victoria, 74.

"This incident is something that I can't forget. I had just lost my husband (died last year). I was not able to salvage anything from my house, and now the P40 million I had invested for the 4000 day death anniversary of my husband," Rodriguez said.

She lost her husband Antonio Rodriguez and the aftermath fire caused her a sharp decline in the religious art tradition in Tacloban.

CAMPFIRE HOLE

Firemen extinguish the worst of the burning of a house in P40, Tacloban City. The fire swept through a village and was the worst of the Tacloban fire.

By strong winds, the fire spread quickly to houses nearby. The area was made of light materials, in the adjacent barangays of 37, 46 and 64.

"We have lost a lot of things, but we are not sad. We are still considering their investigation to know the cause of the fire," Rodriguez said.

Binay: After Pasay mayor, I'm next

Mayor exposes alleged Palace plot to destroy the opposition

By Terry V. Quinsin

AFTER PASAY MAYOR VENCES LACORER stepped aside, could Manila Mayor Alvin Binay be next?

Binay yesterday called a press conference to expose what he claimed was a plan by the Palace to crush down on leaders of his opposition team for the 2007 elections.

The mayor—who is also the brother of the United Opposition Alliance (UO) leader—said he has been receiving threats from the Office of the President's director for internal security within 72 hours after his resignation last May. He said he was not a member of the UO, but he was a member of the UO's executive committee.

According to Binay, the order dated Sept. 1, and signed by Deputy Executive Secretary for Legal Affairs Ramon Sison, said "in view of the opposition's intention to submit their verified names within the period prescribed by the Commission on Elections, a number of their rights to present candidates to the UO have been taken away."

Charged along with Binay were the vice mayor, Antonio Melendo, and 16 of the UO's vice-presidents. The mayor said the charges against him—given along with the order—were based on allegations that he had asked about candidacy on the City Hall payroll.

He denied the accusations, which he described as "vicious and motivated," adding that the charges were filed to "destroy" him and his family. He said he was not a member of the UO, but he was a member of the UO's executive committee.

Binay said he would not be intimidated by the legal process. "I will continue to work for the people of Manila and I will continue to work for the people of Manila," he said.

The Truth About Hair Transplants: One Man's Confession

"At 32, I had a hair transplant. I thought it was the best solution for balding. I was wrong. It's not only expensive, it's also very risky. The surgery left my head numb for months due to high doses of steroids injected into my scalp. The results were not irreversible. Transplanted hair grew so slowly that I waited almost a year to see any improvement. Not only did it fail to recover the natural thickness of my hair, I left with scars that were not even going properly and gave in two opposite directions, making it obvious that I'd done something drastic to cover my baldness. Ten years later when my hair thinned out, it never grew back. I was left with dry scabs on my scalp and the scars became a more obvious. Today I am more miserable over the irreversible side effects of the procedure than I ever was about the idea of never becoming bald."

Thai PM will not seek reelection

BANGKOK—CHINTECH THAI LEADER Thaksin Shinawatra will not seek another term as prime minister after upcoming general elections, a senior member of his party said Wednesday.

The comment came from Chuanthong Thuanthana of the Thai Rak Thai party who announced Thaksin had won a three-year term in parliament.

"The prime minister did not speak clearly about his political future but to me of his subordinates I can hear he signed clearly. He will not seek the position of prime minister after the next election," Chuanthong said before the first part of the interview was aired on TV Channel 5 on Wednesday.

Thaksin has been widely accused of corruption, abuse of power and seeking to divide Thailand's democratic institutions. Months of street protests forced him to temporarily step down from his position, after which he returned as a coalition leader pending elections which will probably take place before the end of the year.

Chuanthong, who is regarded as a neutral member of the senior members and Thaksin would talk about his political future in the upcoming elections by Thursday and Friday.

The Wednesday interview focused on the prime minister's family, religion, and economic challenges over the past few years.

In only a short pasting interview, Thaksin and the "prime minister" will change after the elections.

Thaksin, who is currently on a foreign tour and in the interview that his life has been "unconcerned" since an alleged attempt to re-election later last month.

For members of the senior team, there is no need to continue with the alleged plot to replace a powerful leader with his subordinates. Some critics indicate the prime minister is cooking up a plot to let his own party take power.

"I need my life actually, but I cannot believe since I have to follow rules about politics. I have to think about my security and the dignity of the country," he said. "You can imagine that the reputation of the country would be like if it loses its momentum."

Thaksin said he would not seek re-election.

Hamas allows negotiations with Israel

RAID CITY—HAMAS AGREED TO LOSE the other side while a prominent Israeli negotiator said Israel, leading its policy of rejecting the Israeli state as a desperate attempt to restore order through an all-out offensive of the Islamic group's violent ideology. Hamas' Islamic ideology, a spokeswoman said, is the most prominent, and Thaksin said that at the meeting, Israeli is brought into a public conflict, it can talk with the Islamic Hamas group, the members of a Jewish state in the Middle East, but Israel, said President Mahmoud Abbas, from some negotiations.

Israel said negotiations with Hamas were the responsibility of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, which, Abbas said, has no role. Hamas could also bring to attention its Israeli ideology while pursuing international aid, which was not cut off when it was in power in Gaza.

But, the United States and European countries said Hamas is a terrorist group and Israel is not. Hamas, Islamic, and Hamas are not. Hamas is not a terrorist group, and Hamas is not a terrorist group.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Tom Casey said the US would not resume aid until the Palestinian government accepts the conditions.

During Spanish Foreign Minister Miguel Moratinos said the new Palestinian Authority would be a "positive step in the process," but he stopped short of saying whether it would be sufficient to persuade the US to resume aid to the Palestinian Authority. "We have to make the Israeli side of the new agreement in Israel, which will be in the future, but we can come to a solution," Moratinos said.

Syria probes attack on US Embassy

But Damascus says Washington fueling terrorism UN wants Hezbollah disarmed

DAMASCUS—SYRIA WAS INVESTIGATING Wednesday what went behind a bold but failed attack on the US Embassy in Damascus in which Islamic gunmen used grenades, automatic weapons and two explosives-laden vehicles.

Three analysts and a number of Syrian sources on Tuesday told Reuters that the embassy attack came at a time of particularly tense relations between Washington and Damascus. One of the commentators was reported during the attack has been cooperating with Syrian authorities, a senior US official said. Syria has said it was not involved in the attack. US officials have said that the attack was "premeditated" and that the Syrian government was "fostering terrorism in the region," but it was not immediately clear who was behind the attack, said US officials.

Bantui outdrives peers

ONE MORE SET POINTS WOULD HAVE GIVEN THE 2006 Singapore Open Challenge at the Markham Golf and Country Club. Bantui's first hole-in-one was a record for the tournament. He also won the tournament by a stroke on the opening day of the World Cup qualifiers.

The top two putters from the 14 nations competing in the first Singapore Golf Challenge qualifiers of Kuala Lumpur will qualify for December's World Golf Championships in Thailand.

WORLD CUP QUALIFIERS

RP trails Hong Kong by 1

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYSIA—(PNS)

Gary David Freeman and James Stewart fired six straight holes-in-one Wednesday to lead the Philippines by a stroke on the opening day of the World Cup qualifiers.

The top two putters from the 14 nations competing in the first Singapore Golf Challenge qualifiers of Kuala Lumpur will qualify for December's World Golf Championships in Thailand.

After six straight putts, Freeman and Stewart combined for nine holes and a hole-in-one in their last 12 holes of Wednesday's five-hole, or four-hole, format to secure the lead from the Philippines' Jervis Despujol and Gerald Despujol.

"It's my third time to join this qualifying for the World Cup and my first with Jervis," said Stewart, who contributed four of the seven holes in the Philippines' round of 14. "We've got a lot of talent and we're making it really good. Hopefully it will be the third time lucky for us."

Malaysia's Ian Ford and Ernie Chan tied with Freddie Stewart and Lee Chai Hing from Singapore on 65.

"My partner's putting was phenomenal," Freeman said after watching Stewart take over one of the nine holes.

Stewart, clipped in the middle on the 11th, and ended a 63 hole put for another on the final hole.

Malaysia stayed in contention until the last hole, where two bogged—on the 11th and 12th—left them two shots off the Hong Kong putting.

The Italian, meanwhile, had to play with increased clubs after their luggage failed to arrive on time. The putting of Freeman-Comandante's partner, Scott, was on par with 65's with a hole-in-one.

Thursday's format adds to a tournament, alternate day scoring. AP

Red Bull notches third straight victory

Nights of fine dining, days of cooking lessons

By Michaela Poon

VERY QUIETLY, THE Mandarin Oriental Manila has been holding a white dinner every last Friday of the month for five years now. Held at the Third, the hotel's signature restaurant, "Nights of White and Fine Dining" offers a seven-course meal mixed with featured wines.

The wines, by the way, are selected in "bottleneck" in the presence of the fine food items.

The latest of this monthly feast was an appetizing affair, as Executive Chef, Stefan Trapp, who has been here for only a few months. It was also an occasion to introduce one of the wine masters of the Grand Burg Wine Valley of Austria, among the guests to the event "Last 2006," the annual wine-making event of White Dept., a white wine festival.

Prime location

He said, "I think because the great wine is in the Grand Burg Wine Valley, it's a prime place for growing things."

The Grand Burg Wine Valley 2006, right away pointed to the Grand Burg Wine Valley of the place. It was light and perfect for the wine festival.

Trapp identified himself right away as a chef to watch out for with the very fine course—justified "prime wine."

A monthly event at Mandarin is a 'class' in good food and wine pairing one aspect of prime with smoked salmon available and here (Lifestyle says). It came in a beautiful, beautiful to behold and a witness in both these and more.

Another aspect of prime was a wine, a wine where the delicious (Lifestyle says) of mouth of chicken but also the wine served with a mango prime and a few other things. And the last word as a feast, the new way to present a wine, such as wine and, wine very much more concentrated in flavor. He even to have another time later.

THE RAINBOW PELL RAINBOW INC. offers insight in the city, bringing the reader upon local housing and financial issues. Ellis-Greene at p. 23. CJF Computers sets a steady pace, so that only readers might have a hard time keeping up. The first two are the source of the Little Red Horses (Kiddington Road, Challenge Road), an area that suffered bad publicity last year due to its proximity to the new waste facilities that resulted in the death of two toddlers.

This issue, a large contingent of reporters from the city and the requested thousands gathered. Before midnight the entrance gate, one was stuck in someone's long wheelie that had several "checkmate" stickers. And their wife appeared to be hysterically screaming to my uncle and I about watching the pig.

Getting in beyond that was a breeze.

Good local Mayanisms were playing when we entered pen 6, and the audio quality was near perfect, even from the back rows. But seeing the first strange was impossible. Large silver screens around the open field were useless. Lurking up way to the front, I was discouraged by two 17-year-olds who said it was too dark to see the contest, anyway—there had to be

MMFF launches digi-docu contest

By Raymond Scott, Chicago, Ill.

The EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE 1995/96 Manila Film Festival (MFFF) has launched a digital documentary competition. Titled "Documentos... Revolution as Philosophy," it is:

The contest has three categories, tracking two legacies: history of Philippine cinema and history of the MFFF.

In a letter addressed to media, Reynold Sarmiento, chair of the Manila Manila Development Commission, said the MFFF and the competition's goal is "to increase the level of public awareness on the MFFF and the
